Tsunami victims refused to accept the same due to paucity of storage capacity;

(b) if so, whether Government would consider creation of buffer capacity stores in each State/UT where donors could give material from time to time to meet the requirement of any natural disaster/calamity immediately in future; and

(c) how the surplus material now collected is proposed to be utilized?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS(SHRI S. REGUPATHY): (a) and (b) The essential relief material like blankets, tents, clothing etc. was mobilized and sent to the Tsunami affected areas promptly, as per the requirements identified in consultation with the concerned State Governments/Union Territory Administrations. No reports have been received in this Ministry with regard to the mobilization of the required material having been hampered due to paucity of storage space. However, keeping in view the need for advance planning to meet such constraints which could arise following a natural calamity, the State Governments have been advised to draw up Disaster Management Plans at the State/District level. These Plans would inter-alia take into consideration the requirement with regard to storage facilities for essential relief supplies and other resources needed for disaster response. The State have also been advised to enter into pre-contracts with suppliers to ensure expeditious supply of relief material as and when required so that the need for standing arrangements for storage and maintenance of relief materials by the Departments/agencies concerned with disaster response can be minimized.

(c) No reports have been received by this Ministry about collection of surplus material.
